LETTER FROM ALEXANDRIA, IND.—March 15, 1905.—We came to Madison county, Ind., Feb. 27, 1904.

There is quite a colony of Madison county people in this county. This is a beautiful farming country. Land sells here from $60 to $100 per acre. Farmers raise corn, wheat and oats. Corn is worth 50c a bushel, oats 35c, wheat $1.20. There is plenty of good timber here. Lumbering hands get from $18 to $21 a month. Every day work from 75c to $1.25. The crops were poor here last year on account of the dry weather. Corn made from 40 to 75 bushels per acre. Hay is worth $11 per ton; sheep $6 throughbred. The farmers all keep thoroughbred stock—draft horses and fine cattle. The best cattle sell at $75 per cow.

We live in the northern part of the State, a miles south of Alexandria. Madison county has a large town. Anderson is the county seat. It is situated on White river. We live in the gas belt. Several of the wells have failed. Also we are in sight of the oil fields. The wells run from 65 to 100 barrels of oil a day.

Madison county has three of the best railroads in the State—Lake Erie, Big Four and Pennsylvania lines. We are close to the interurban car line. We have good schools; a school-house every two miles.

We like THE OUTLOOK; think it is a fine paper. We would like to hear from the Sherburne correspondent this year. We have taken this paper for quite a while. I would like to hear from some more of the Kentucky people.

Yours truly,
ARTHUR MADDOX.

Mr. STERLING COURT.—There was a large number of both mules and cattle on the market at Mt. Sterling Monday. Mules were strong in demand and prices were a little advanced. The best feeding cattle sold at 4c, nearly anything in that line selling as high as 4c.

HOFFMAN-JOHNSON.—The Christian Church at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, the 15th instant, was the scene of the beautiful wedding of Miss Mary Hunter Johnson and Mr. J. H. Hoffman, Elder H. D. Clark officiating.

The decorations consisted of fine palms, ferns and other rare and beautiful tropic plants, grouped about the altar and chancel in generous profusion. The color scheme of green and white being maintained, a veritable bower of beauty met the gaze of the throng of visitors who filled the auditorium to overflowing.

Mrs. J. H. E. Jephson presided at the organ and the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march announced the arrival of the wedding party. The ushers, Messrs. Dyke L. Hazlerigg, of Frankfort; H. M. Prewitt, J. C. Graves and R. M. Barnes, marched in, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Louise Hoffman, sister of the groom, and Miss Catherine Calk, cousin of the bride, both charming in white chiffon gowns, carrying pink carnations. Next came the maid of honor Miss Susette Johnson, the next younger sister of the bride, who was extremely handsome in a white chiffon gown, carrying white carnations. Then came the bride in the arm of her brother, Mr. Albert Sidney Johnson.

The bride wore an exquisite and extremely becoming gown of white net over chiffon and silk, and carried a shiver bouquet of lilies of the valley, a personalification of purity.

The bridal party was joined at the altar by the groom and his brother, Mr. Henry G. Hoffman, who, as best man, wore a beautiful couplet while, in a beautiful and most impressive manner, the ceremony which made them man and wife was said.

The perfect unity of the bride and groom was attested by a generous number of fine presents, consisting of wide and varied creations in styles of useful and ornamental silver, cut glass, bric-a-brac and paintings.

The bride is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Thomas Johnson, and is a beautiful young girl, of noble breeding, rare sweetness of disposition and charmingly companionable; she has a wide circle of friends who wish for "one full stream of love from fount to sea."

The groom is a member of one of our most excellent families, being the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hoffman. He is a young gentleman of attractive personality, fine sense and character, and splendid business qualifications.

He is a member of the insurance firm of Hoffman & Son, and though young in years, he has reached high ranks in the ladder of success.

At the ceremony an elegant luncheon was served to the bridal party at the bride's home, and Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman left on the 9:43 train for a trip to Washington, D. C., New York and other eastern cities and points of interest.—Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat.

LOUISVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.—Saturday evening, March 18.—The tobacco sold on the four regular sales days of this week amounted to 4,822 hogheads, a small lot of tobacco being sold Monday which had been carried over from the previous week, owing to the rush of business. The market has been all the offerings remarkably well, and there is no complaint to make. Values, however, are possibly not as good as they were at this time last week. In fact, the American Tobacco Company buyers were supporting it yesterday, owing to the absence of competition, which is the natural result of continued heavy offerings, as buyers either wait out of orders or else the factors get that a good stock on hand that they are content to hold off and await lower prices. If the support is extended, therefore, it may be looked upon in the nature of encouragement to the planters for the coming planting season.

Buyers were more disposed to discriminate against tobacco in soft order than they have been for some time. Colory tobaccos continued in excellent request, but made up a very small percentage of the offerings. Some good red tobacco, of the finer grades, was on sale and brought satisfactory prices, especially when available for wrappers or fancy cutters. Prices of such grades showed an advance of almost 1 cent on the pound. Higher prices were made for good lugs and tips, also for good, medium and common red leaf. The trashes were lower. Old prices prevailed for bright leaf, lugs and trashes, and colory smokers and strippers showed no net change, though slightly higher the first half of the week. A good demand was noted for export grades at higher prices. Offerings of old Burley were small, with prices firm to a shade higher. Old dark offerings contained nothing worthy of special attention, but prices for both leaf and lugs were up a fraction. The new dark was not in a satisfactory condition. Trashes and lugs were a shade firmer, and the general tendency of the market was toward higher values. There was an especially good demand for export types.

Offerings of leaf tobacco were very heavy this week, amounting to 4,822 hogheads, of which 4,014 were Burley. The dark market comprised 808 hogheads, 445 of which were old crops. The sales compared with a total of 3,477 hogheads at the corresponding period last year and 3,508 in the year 1903.

Buyers, warehousemen and employes are kept busy. The total sales for the year to date have been 41,247 hogheads, or about 10,000 more than at this time last year. The sales of dark tobacco for 1905 and 1904 up to the present time about offset each other, but a gain of 9,887 hogheads is shown in the volume of Burley business transacted. Total sales of new crop to date have amounted to 38,559 hogheads, of which 33,970 were original inspections. Rejections for the week amount to 500 hogheads of Burley, 123 of dark and 623 total, the percentage of Burley rejections to auction being 13, of dark 19 and of the total 13. Since January 1 the rejections in this market have amounted to 5,941 hogheads. Receipts this week were 2,958, and since January 1 they have amounted to 39,055 hogheads.—Courier-Journal.

Tobacco Association.

[Lexington Leader.]

Steps looking toward the reorganization of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Company and a continuation of the fight against the tobacco trust were taken at a meeting of prominent growers of the Burley district at Jackson Hall Monday afternoon.

A resolution was adopted calling for the appointment of a committee to devise some plan for reorganizing the company and also for a delegate convention to be held here to consider this plan, the convention to have power to adopt, amend or revise it.

The meeting was called to order by W. B. Hawkins, president of the former organization, which failed in its efforts to procure financial backing and was addressed by Archibald Stuart, of Cincinnati, who acted as the agent of the organization in the attempt to get New York capitalists to finance the scheme.

Mr. Stuart detailed his conference with the financiers at length and said that although he had failed in his efforts to get the money, the movement had not failed, because by reason of it the farmers had been able to get increased prices for their product. He said that all that was needed to make the movement a success was a working organization, that would have some thing more tangible to present to the capitalists when the next appeal is made for funds.

William Adams, of Cynthiana, presented the following resolution, which was adopted unanimously:—"Resolved, That the president appoint a committee of seven of whom the majority shall be one to devise the best plan or organization for the Burley Tobacco Growers, and when said committee is ready to report they shall notify the president who shall call mass meetings in all counties of the Burley district and at said meetings the growers shall elect one delegate to represent them to be held in Lexington on the call of the president and said delegates may adopt, amend or revise said report."

W. C. McChord, of Springfield, then made a speech, in which he made a bitter attack on newspapers that have published articles insinuating that W. B. Hawkins had not acted in good faith with the growers. He referred to them as "dirty little sheets" and said that the articles were the result of the tobacco trust's "long green." At the conclusion of his speech he offered and put the following resolution, expressing confidence in Mr. Hawkins and requesting him to continue his fight:—"Whereas, certain little newspapers, which have reliable information are under control of the tobacco trust, have made insinuations that W. B. Hawkins, President of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association, has not acted in good faith with the growers, we do hereby announce all such insinuations as false in every particular. We take pleasure in expressing our unbounded confidence in the integrity and good faith of W. B. Hawkins, and request him to continue the fight which he has begun against the trust and never cease until his efforts have been crowned with success."

The resolution was adopted by a rising vote. Mr. Hawkins said that he was gratified at this expression of confidence in him and that he was sure that the growers did not doubt his good faith. He appointed the following committee as provided for by the first resolution: William Adams, Harrison county; Archibald Stuart, Cincinnati; C. B. Sullivan, Woodford county; W. C. McChord, Washington county; J. W. Hughes, Mercer county; Walter Sharp, Bath county; and W. B. Hawkins, Fayette county.

Leonard Drane, of Shelby county; R. B. Brown, of Gallatin county, and Scott Osborne, of Mason county, were afterwards added to the committee on motion of delegates.

The suggestion was made that if any tobacco men had some idea as to the plan by which the company should be organized they should send their theory to the committee.

Other growers made speeches, the general tenor of which was that the organization could succeed if the farmers would get together and stay together.

The meeting was attended by about 200 growers and at times there was much enthusiasm.

Irrigation, Forestry and Land Law Reform.

What has Congress done this winter in the forestry and irrigation cause? Did it do anything of importance in either, or on the public land question? Nothing in any sense spectacular but yet several things of very considerable importance, and furthermore it refused to do several very bad things which were strongly urged upon it.

After a long struggle of years the law was passed consolidating all of the forestry work of the government into one bureau in the Department of Agriculture; this in place of having it split up among some five various branches in different departments. This gives $100 million acres of forest reserve into the care of the Forestry Bureau of the Department of Agriculture with adequate authority to fairly protect the forests, allow for the cutting and sale of rip timber, and with power to arrest trespassers, etc.

Several small bills desired by the Reclamation Service to more fully carry out the irrigation law were considered and readily passed by Congress, such as the bill to allow the proceeds from the sales of the vast amount of partly used supplies, at the end of each season, to go back into the "reclamation fund" instead of into the Treasury, thus keeping the fund intact and operating as an incentive to the engineers to take care of their property and utilize the most of it.

The really great legislation of the session, however, was the repeal of the forest reserve lien selection law, thus preventing the location in the future of all forest reserve scrips so-called, i. e., repealing the right of a man or a corporation owning land within a forest reserve to relinquish it to the government and select "in lieu" thereof any other unreserved non-mineral public land.

This is a great step forward in land law reform and does away with one of the most notorious and scandalous forms of fraud and graft under the federal land laws. Under this law enormous losses have been put upon the government, the right to select these lien lands having been transferred and resulting in the relinquishment during the past few years of several million acres of comparatively worthless railroad grant and other lands included within forest reserves, and the selection in their place of equal areas of the finest timber lands in the northwest.

Denuded slopes not worth 50 cents an acre, or bare mountain sides, acquired under other land laws at a nominal figure simply for the purpose of exchange, have been relinquished and lien selections made, worth, according to the highest official and expert authorities, $50 and even $100 an acre. By these transactions the country has lost in the last few years tens of millions of dollars. By the action of Congress this form of graft is now at an end.

The repeal of this lien law is the first recognition of Congress of the wise recommendations of the President and his Public Lands Commission. There are three other specific reform recommendations of the President and the Commission and these will be for Congress to act upon at its next session.

Another point, however, wherein Congress followed the recommendations of the Commission was in the refusal of the Senate to enact 640 acre homestead laws for Colorado and South Dakota, although the House did the best to secure this square mile homestead legislation. In defiance of the strong adverse reports of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, the Secretary of the Interior, the Public Lands Commission, along with the special message from the President to Congress endorsing the Commission's recommendation against these bills, and of the strong protest of Chairman Lacey of the House Public Lands Committee, the House of Representatives passed these measures by a vote of nearly three to one.

This proposed legislation was considered especially unwise just at this time when the Department of Agriculture is every year bringing into the possibilities of profitable cultivation millions of acres of the semi-arid lands, where it was proposed to apply these laws, through the introduction from abroad of drought resistant plants and desert species of grain and fodder, and by new and improved methods for farming dry lands. Moreover, the Commission has worked out a plan of range control and grazing permits which gives the real settler all asked for under the 640 acre measures and yet avoids the danger of the absorption
